
The Role of Women in a God-Based Organization

— By Dr. Christine Topjian —

Women In The Workplace

As you can imagine (and see in everyday life), women have a tremendously important role in the workplace.

They can bring softness, kindness, a traditional approach, new thoughts and ideas, new ways to deliver products and services and they can do this all while living out their faith in Christ.

Women can be organized and can lead an organization to greatness.

Women Are Also Important At Home

Yes, it is also very important to note that women also have a strong role in the home as well as can have in the workplace too.

Women can (and many do) wear many hats both in the professional sense and in the home.

But women also need SUPPORT....(we'll talk about that in the next slide)

Women Need Support

Support can come from and in various forms, all of which are very important. If a woman does not have these success pieces at their disposal, things can fall apart. That does not make women weak. Quite the contrary, it takes strength to say you need help and it takes strength to accept that help when it is there.

What that support can look like:

- Picking up the kids from school
- Help with meals and meal prep
- Emotional support and hearing her out
- Helping her with the problems and challenges she is experiencing
- Letting her know she is doing a great job, particularly when she is feeling down
- Helping to talk to her kid(s) and assisting in raising them with solid family morals and values
- Understanding and accommodating her work schedule to allow her to be home with her family when she needs to be

Biblically...

In the Bible, there are many instances when women received help and support at home and in the workplace.

This is still true and needed today.

For example, Ruth was given help and assistance on the home front and in the workplace and proved herself to be great at both.

But one needs to remember that God ordained and guided Ruth's steps. That's how she received all the support that she had.

Women today are not really different - they still need (and deserve) the help and the support that women from Biblical times received.

Women Asking For Help. Praying.

One of the best and most important ways a woman can ask for support is by asking God for help.

She can pray and she can ask God for the help that she needs. God always has ways and always has a source to be able to help her.

God Has Ways That We Don't

I want to make this very clear: God has ways and resources that we do not and so even if something feels or seems impossible, we have to remember that His ways are not our ways and His resources are not our resources.

As such, do not look just to your own self and your own resources to see how you will figure it out. Let God help you figure it out. Pray!
